Such phones can be programmed to send an alert to your car or cellular phone that you are on a certain route. I am currently on such a phone. My wife, the GPS-phone-user, uses one and she often sends a message to me when she is on her way home after running an errand, or when she is running to one of the kid's school events. I'm not a heavy user of such devices, but I do have a Garmin GPS device in my car that works off satellite technology. There
