Age of Wonders III - Build Guide. Topics.Q: Story with a man that can be inside a computer (or something) I read this story a while ago. I think it was a recent book, it could have been late 80s or early 90s. In this story, a guy was "thinking" inside a computer (I believe it was just an actual old computer). He could move the cursor around in the monitor, but not see the computer's memory. I think he could stop the program, if he liked. Is this a story, book, or TV show? A: You are thinking of The Computer Book by Robert Silverberg and Hal Clement, which is available on Project Gutenberg. The book is set in 2068 and tells of a hacker who is able to control a computer by controlling its visual display. A: I believe you're thinking of "Blue Rose" by John Varley, which I read as an adult and it is available on Project Gutenberg. The main character, "Earl Aubyn", is a computer hacker. The first chapter is pretty much the entire plot, and the rest of the story tells a much longer story involving a conspiracy involving a secret military project and the exploitation of a certain secret technology.
