I have made a simple lightning component. The component is associated with a lightning record. The component is supposed to be used to edit an object. It contains a datagrid with a simple checkbox column and a simple button column with the "Save" button text. In the action method, I have the following code: var action = component.get("c.saveChanges"); action.setParams({ "fieldApiName": "Name", "recordId": record.Id, "isNew": true }); action.setCallback(this, function(a) { //if the response is success, we will let our controller know.

I managed to get the shape I want using SVG (see here for example) but the problem is, SVG uses CSS3 transforms. I have not yet tried to change it to SVG or add a webkit prefix (to be on the safe side) but can someone think of 2d92ce491b
