Q: PHP form processing - how to pass a value from the "reply" form to the "post" form? I have a form that allows a user to send in a comment. This comment is stored in a database and when the user clicks "post" a new page will load where the user's comment is displayed. I'm confused about the best way to pass the user's comment from the "reply" page back to the "post" page. The "reply" page has a function where a user can click "reply" and enter a comment. I thought about using cookies or sessions, but I don't know if these are best practices for what I'm trying to do. A: use $_POST $_POST Contains an associative array of all of the data that was submitted to the page through a POST method. "We believe that by 2021 you will see a reduction of 80 to 90 percent in hospitalizations and deaths due to low-mortality conditions, such as type 2 diabetes, heart disease, stroke, and even Alzheimer's disease," said Peter Stenehjem, president and chief executive of the American Diabetes Association. The preliminary findings appear in the June issue of Diabetes Care, published online ahead of print. Although diabetes is often thought of as a disease of old age, nearly a quarter of new cases in adults are diagnosed before age 20. "And the incidence of diabetes in youth is growing," Stenehjem said. A report released last month by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services showed that the number of Americans with diagnosed diabetes increased from 5.1 million in 2007 to 5.4 million in 2009, a rise of more than 1 percent. Adults with diabetes have an increased risk of premature death

I'm running into problems with the single quotes still existing. This is the code that I'm running: $('#header-footer.ps-number:contains("'")').each(function () { $(this).text().replace(/'/g, ''); }); A: You can use the following regex $('#header-footer.ps-number:contains("'")').each(function() { $(this).text($(this).text().replace(/'/g,'')); }); DEMO More generally $('#header-footer.ps-number:contains("'")').each(function() { $(this).text($(this).text().replace(/'/g,'')) }); DEMO [EDIT] $('#header-footer.ps-number:contains("'")").each(function() { $(this).text(function(_,v){return v.replace(/['"']/g,'');}); }); DEMO Now Commenting On: Smoltz will not pitch in World Baseball Classic Email Print Press Release | Mike Smoltz will not pitch in the 2010 World Baseball Classic. After playing catch on Saturday, Smoltz said it has been determined that he will be able to pitch next week against the White Sox. The lefty has been scratched from his scheduled start on Thursday against the Padres in San Diego. The fact that he's able to pitch after playing catch on Saturday, after having sat out five straight days of games and after missing back-to-back starts last week is a good sign 2d92ce491b
