I've recently migrated DTOv2 onto Unity 2020 and then added Steam's rollback data to it. May 12, 2015 Updated to support Unity 2018c and using Steam Rollback Update to protect rollback. May 12, 2015 Updated to remove any old version support. It's done updating and it works! Congrats! I guess you are good to go. :) May 3, 2015 Here's a new update! Steam's rollback data is no longer stored on the Game! We are now all stored in the local Application Data folder in DTOv2. Steam Client updates automatically pull out this rollback data and use it to tell Steam's Master servers where you rolled back to. How to get started May 2, 2015 Steam's rollback data is now stored in the local Application Data folder. So the following location is the right place to put rollback data: C:\Users\[username]\AppData\Roaming\DTOv2\Versions\ new Steam client May 1, 2015 Steam's rollback data is stored in the local Application Data folder. So now you can safely remove it from your old version of DTOv2 and transfer the rollback data over to the new version of DTOv2. ^NEW^ Steam Client updates automatically pull out this rollback data and use it to tell Steam's Master servers where you rolled back to. May 1, 2015 If using DTOv2 version 2.23, try a fresh install. This may be the most economical solution. You should be able to get the old version at the Dto_win32_Setup.exe / patching tools GitHub page. May 1, 2015 If using DTOv2 version 2.23, try a fresh install. This may be the most economical solution. You should be able to get
