In the photo gallery, all of the photos that I have taken are organized by the year, month, and day. The date that a photo was taken is also displayed. To navigate through this gallery, I press the arrow keys. Some information is displayed about the photos. For instance, the aperture, the f-stop, and the ISO are also displayed. Now I will show you how to import some photos. When I import photos, I select a folder, and then I click on the import button.

But I am unable to add the project because: "There are no projects in the selected folder. Add a new project." I have tried to add a project to the website, but that doesn't seem to work either. How can I solve this? A: I was having the same problem, and found it under the following circumstances. Project and Solution Explorer were not showing in the top level View Window, e.g., Solution Explorer was not showing in the Solution View Window 'Web Site' was selected as the project type The '...' was in the top right of the Solution Explorer window When this happened, I could open the menu on the top right, choose "Show All Windows", and then the View Window would appear. The solution was to close the menu and repeat. Other hints to check for: Solution Explorer may not be showing at the top level File Explorer may not be showing at the top level Another user may have changed the settings and given themselves the right to modify the top level windows (through Tools, Options, Windows, Navigation) Exercise and weight loss for treating obesity and reducing risk of diabetes and heart disease.
