Publishing imagery layers from ArcGIS Pro to the portal's raster analysis server or image hosting servers to which you registered the folder. Database. IN . NET Framework 4.0 uses a Microsoft SQL Server database to display layer information. This information is stored in an XML file and is used to access the layer information stored in the database in the web application. The database used to create and update images from ArcGIS Pro contains a folder where images are stored. This folder is called CLOUDSET. In addition, the database stores parameters that are used to create and update the image.
