1. Technical Field The present invention relates to a driving method for an electro-optic device and an electronic apparatus, and particularly relates to a driving method for an electro-optic device and an electronic apparatus that have light-emitting units configured to emit light in a plurality of colors. 2. Related Art In recent years, electro-optic devices have been proposed that have light-emitting units (hereinafter referred to as "light-emitting elements") including light-emitting elements that emit light in a plurality of colors and are configured to light a color of light emitted from the light-emitting units by appropriately controlling the light-emitting elements to perform color display. For example, JP-A-2010-182827 discloses an electro-optic device including organic EL elements as light-emitting elements and a reflection region configured to reflect light emitted from the organic EL elements toward the organic EL elements. The organic EL elements are interposed between a scanning line and a video line provided on a surface of a light guide plate, such that light emitted from the organic EL elements can be irradiated to the reflection region. In a driving method for an electro-optic device, light-emitting elements of a plurality of colors are controlled for each color to display one of a plurality of colors. For example, light-emitting elements of each color are driven to light, and light emission of each color is controlled such that the light emission of each color reaches a certain level. However, the related art is not necessarily appropriate to reduce the total emission time for driving light-emitting elements.
