Britain, 22 August 2007: Just seven months after the number of gun murders in the UK rose to a 16-year high, Gun Crime Awareness Week has been launched, aiming to encourage more responsible gun ownership. From 14-20 August, gun crime awareness week will be a week of programmes run by anti-gun lobbyists. The Department for Transport is running a campaign aimed at encouraging drivers to be aware of the dangers of driving under the influence of alcohol. Anti-gun lobby groups claim that there is a link between alcohol and car accidents, which can lead to an increase in firearm deaths. So far this year, there have been an estimated 6,251 gun deaths in the UK. An estimated 13,057 were gun-related in 2004. The number of reported gun murders also rose to 16 in 2004. In 2001, England and Wales had an estimated 5,708 gun murders. Scotland had 1,406 in 2005, Northern Ireland had 1,185, and the figure in the US is estimated at 33,871. The British National Party is organising a countrywide weekend of protest
