Action Recorder is an easy to use tool that specializes in recording and repeating mouse and keyboard actions. It is a software application that helps you save and schedule repetitive tasks, so that you can easily perform them later, on your PC or the whole network. The tool sports a clean and simple design that makes it easier to use. You can speed up repetitive tasks by setting up the time interval between two actions, and you can pause them if you so desire. The software comes with a built-in list of recordable commands, and it is able to record multiple mouse clicks. You can, however, disable that option and move the cursor step by step, using the up and down arrows. The program sports hotkeys, which means you can start and stop recording, and pause the tool, with only a single mouse click. The app, in addition to mouse clicking, is capable of handling keyboard action too, such as pressing multiple keys. The tool is very easy to use, and you can perform most of the operations with a single mouse click. If you use a Mac, Action Recorder is a simple and reliable way to record, repeat, and schedule repetitive mouse clicks. However, it does not record sound.

Advantages: -Easy to use interface; -Highly reliable; -Comprehensive list of supported commands.

Bitfinder is a data recovery tool that can help you recover lost files and other data from all kinds of storage media. The software contains two versions. One of them is the free version that lets you recover only the four most recent files. The paid full version gives you access to all files that ever have been created on your computer, as well as folders. It is worth mentioning that neither this tool nor its free version can be used to recover files lost due to overwriting. Bitfinder can handle a wide range of storage media, from hard drives and solid state drives to DVDs, USB memory keys and external hard drives, and it will work regardless of the type of file recovery that you are dealing with. The program displays data recovery results in an easy-to-understand table format, and its interface is clean and intuitive. An essential tool for any computer user, Bitfinder doesn't leave users as well as hard drives exposed to risks, so it is fully compatible with Windows 7 and 8. The Windows Hardware Certification Assistant (HWCAT) is a device that helps you to identify the Windows devices that meet the hardware requirements needed to run Windows 7, Windows Server 2008, and Microsoft Office 2010. The software features a user-friendly interface that allows you to perform quick tests on any hardware element that you would like to ensure. With the HWCAT, you can test your hardware using either a Microsoft Windows 7 or Windows Server 2008 user interface. The utility runs in its own memory space and it requires an updated version of Windows 7, Windows Server 2008, or Microsoft Office 2010. The HWCAT is not an antivirus program, so it is not programmed to detect malicious software that is not downloaded to your hard drive. The HWCAT is designed to check the hardware requirements of the Windows operating system and Microsoft Office 2010, and it doesn't have any other functionality. The HWCAT comes in handy in case you are planning to install any new hardware that can be used to connect to the Internet, as well as if you want to
