Let's say the file is 100 lines long and I want to update the first 50 lines. I've seen some other examples that work with one line at a time. Is there a fast method (using Regex?) to only update the last 50 lines? A: You could try a solution like this, but it will update all the lines in the file, not just the last 50. public static void updateFile(File f, String contents) throws FileNotFoundException, IOException { long start = System.currentTimeMillis(); BufferedReader input = new BufferedReader(new FileReader(f)); try { String line = input.readLine(); while (line!= null) { System.out.println(line); line = input.readLine(); } } finally { input.close(); } long end = System.currentTimeMillis(); System.out.println(String.format("Time taken = %d ms", (end - start))); System.out.println("Updated " + f.length() + " lines."); } public static void main(String[] args) throws FileNotFoundException, [19] The record contains no evidence concerning the value of the Landrum daughters' shares of stock, assuming the existence of a corporate merger and/or assumption of liabilities, any outstanding stock of the subsidiary corporation, any remaining assets of that corporation, the value of the new entity's property, equipment or any other related factors. The stock issue was not addressed at trial and the parties have not asked for a jury determination concerning the value of the stock or the amount of damages. [20] In the absence of proof of the value of the Landrum daughters' shares of stock in the joint venture on the date of merger or assumption of liabilities, the parties and the jury were left to speculate about the impact of the loss of the business upon the value of the stock. The possibility of future exercise of the option should have been taken into account.
