In the landscape of desktop publishing (DTP) software, PDF files are overlooked to a great degree. The format is deep, with multiple fonts, graphics, layouts, and page breaks. There are a few, however, to take advantage of the format. Adobe Acrobat Pro is one, but if you're looking for a free option, Adobe Reader is the way to go. Both ACR and Reader are too oriented toward outputting documents to a printer. The PDF format is all about storing documents in a format in which they can be rendered in whatever application you want. PDF documents can even be opened in Microsoft Word, Excel, and PowerPoint. ## What's New In?

DocumentBuster creates reports from PDF files. The meta-data of each PDF file is used to break the report. ...from-class. Everytime the run-time makes a call to new BIRT report, it generates a new class file which is much more than what is needed. Following are the requirements: - There are two web apps, AppA and AppB, and they share the same code. The only difference is that AppA is able to generate a BIRT report and AppB cannot. AppA is deployed on a RHEL server and AppB is on a Windows Server. The problem is that as soon as AppB generates a BIRT report, AppA crashes with the following error: Error:java.lang.ClassFormatError: Incompatible magic value 48 in bytecode 88 of class com.ibm.retail.common.AppB ...each time new BIRT report is created. I believe this has something to do with the way JRE's handle it's class files. Due to that reason I am unable to control the behavior with out actually creating BIRT report, which I do not want to. ...documents. It stores it's on-line BIRT report in WebDAV and have it's very simple XML document as master document. So that XML document is the on-line master document and generated BIRT reports are generated and stored as a single XML document. Requirements: 1. Each client be able to display their own BIRT report. In other words, every user should be able to view their own BIRT report without downloading the BIRT report itself or any BIRT artifacts. 2. It should be possible to export only some parts of the BIRT report, not the entire report. We need a Silverlight application to be developed to call a SOAP web service with authentication to create BIRT Reports. Website with web service is called, to be developed ; We will be developing a Silverlight application using SOAP service calls. ...needs to be generated. Right now the users just upload their documents and download the reports in an Excel file. We would like to give the option to the users to also have the report or generated documents delivered to their email addresses. 3. We want to provide a way for the users to easily select which type of documents they would like to include in their report or
