It was created in 1987 as E3 Upperman, Inc. and was a wholesale distributor for the major firefighting equipment manufacturers at that time. In 1993, E3 Upperman changed its name to Fire Pumps, Inc. to better reflect the sales and services that we were able to provide on a local level. The Fire Pumps Team, consisting of HET, Doug Vogt, Leo Puthoff and Lloyd Watson, work tirelessly at being a leader in fire pump sales and services. Our sales staff are constantly promoting and educating customers on the numerous options available in fire pumps. We have an extensive state of the art repair shop that is used daily. We have a very sophisticated in-house training program that every sales and service person must graduate from.

The use of whole exome sequencing in pediatric patients with acute myeloid leukemia. Whole exome sequencing (WES) in myeloid neoplasms has shown promise as a therapeutic modality, but is still novel and requires validation. WES was employed for the first time in children with myeloid leukemias in this study. Patients with acute leukemia of any subtype were enrolled after informed consent and approval. The clinical characteristics of patients were obtained from medical records. The results of WES were compared with cytogenetic/molecular studies including fluorescence in situ hybridization and array comparative genomic hybridization (aCGH). Twelve patients were enrolled. At the time of analysis, five patients were in the early phase of treatment and seven in the third or later phases. Four were in the hypodiploid (ploidy f30f4ceada
