Tourism Queensland Tourism Queensland was the state tourism and leisure marketing authority of Queensland, Australia until 9 December 2015 when it was replaced by Visit Queensland. History Tourism Queensland (TQ) was formed on 1 April 2007, by the Queensland Government through the establishment of a new agency, Tourism and Events Queensland. It replaced the Department of Tourism, Sport and Trade which had been in existence since 1969. The agency was founded in response to the 2002 Queensland State Tourist Development Strategy which called for a 50% increase in international visitor numbers to Queensland by 2012/13. The agency is responsible for managing the Tourism Act 1997. It is charged with promoting the state's tourism offering, for example through marketing campaigns, development of tourism assets, and promoting Queensland as a tourism destination. Tourism Queensland is a registered trading name of Tourism and Events Queensland Pty Ltd which is a public limited by guarantee company. Executive Tourism Queensland executive is responsible for running the day-to-day operations of the organisation, and comprises a Chief Executive Officer and four executive officers: Keith Hearn is the Chief Executive Officer of Tourism Queensland. He was formerly the chief executive of the Australian Tourism Export Council, the national body representing the sector. Liz Watermeyer is the general manager of Queensland. Jim Yeomans is the tourism portfolio manager. Trish Flood is the tourism portfolio manager. We already discussed My Own Private Idaho and Safe (Part One) and Far from Heaven (Part Two). When I wrote about these two films, I began this series with the basic premise that even though the person that each film features, Elliot (Dennis Quaid), Rusty (Dennis Hopper) and Farrah (Julianne Moore) never come right out and say so, each is, by extension
