The details are scarce, but the agreement that will send an NBA team to Sacramento from the current Sacramento Kings is beginning to take shape. And the Kings are already immersed in their new home. The Sacramento Bee has learned that Sacramento Mayor Kevin Johnson and Kings owners Joe and Gavin Maloof are in talks to sign a formal agreement to build a $250 million "mega-arena." That is the plan for a downtown arena, not the arena now under construction. Briefly: The plan is to build a 41,000-seat arena in the downtown area. The arena would be built on the site of the current Golden 1 Center. The people who own the Kings, however, haven't been part 1cdb3666d
