This game is about football - a game where two teams(one on each side) of eleven players play a match against each other. To win, the other team(or team must score more goals than the team being played) has to be the last team on the field. The difference between the Xbox 360 version and the PS3 version of the game is that the Xbox version has red and black on the cover. The game doesn't even use the title "FIFA" on the cover of the PS3 version. The most obvious difference is the fact that the PC version uses the title FIFA. Who is the main character?
