This module adds the ability to use multiple browser sessions per user to the already existing concept of multiple browsers per user. This allows different users to be in separate sessions at the same time. This module implements the Simple Object Access Protocol (SOAP). SOAP is a web services protocol for exchanging structured information in the Hypertext Transfer Protocol (HTTP). This module implements SOAP through a custom SOAP server and clients in both PHP and Perl. This module provides the ability to communicate with Zend Server (aka Zend Components). The PHP SOAP Server component provides an SOAP server that works with the SOAP extension. This server can be configured to act as a SOAP server or a WS-Security server for integration with existing SOAP servers, PHP applications, or.NET applications. In addition, this module provides support for sending and receiving SOAP messages in conjunction with XML. Perl support for this module is provided through the SOAP::Lite distribution and its corresponding Perl SOAP server. Important: This module implements the HTTP (application/x-www-form-urlencoded) format. This package does not currently support SOAP in the literal sense, but it does provide the core functionality necessary to implement a complete SOAP extension in PHP. Built on top of the Simple XmlRpc Library, this module extends the XML-RPC functionality by allowing you to perform arbitrary operations on remote data. The functionality is designed to be installed on top of any XMLRPC server. This module is an extension to the XML-R

System Requirements:

ZalgoBot version 2.0 can be run on Windows, Mac OS X and Linux. Windows and Mac OS X: ZalgoBot version 2.0 can be installed in 32bit or 64bit mode, depending on your machine. 32bit operating system: ZalgoBot version 2.0 requires an x86 machine, meaning that you must have a 64bit processor. A 32bit processor will not work. If you are running Linux, you will need a 64bit processor. 64bit operating system: ZalgoBot version 2.
