This latest version of the game, set to be released next week on September 27, has been under development since the FIFA 19 release in August last year. “The past two years have been very successful for FIFA. Our game is always very popular among football fans worldwide, and I am proud that ‘The Journey’ is known and loved for its beautiful and realistic graphics,” said EA SPORTS FIFA Lead Producer Matt Bilbey. “This year, we have focused on delivering an even better user experience and more realistic gameplay. “We have introduced new game modes like free-kick shots, the tactical defending system, and our upgraded graphics engine is now a powerful and flexible platform capable of powering anything. “Most importantly, ‘The Journey’ is now much more connected to the real world than ever before, with our HyperMotion Technology allowing players to experience the emotions and intensity of a real-life match in every FIFA game. This is what makes FIFA so much fun.” “The FIFA team has done an incredible job of pushing the envelope of innovation by introducing a game that matches the truly authentic experience that football fans love,” said Alex Baratta, SVP of marketing at Take-Two Interactive, the parent company of the 2K Sports brand. “Take-Two has long been at the forefront of innovation in video games and we are proud to partner with EA SPORTS and their development team on this important and exciting initiative.” Real Player Identity The FIFA brand is one of the most trusted in the world and EA SPORTS has been building an incredible legacy as a publisher of the FIFA franchise. “We are hugely proud of the achievements of our EA SPORTS brand over the years and we are committed to creating the best football video games on the market,” said Ralph Schipani, SVP of EA SPORTS. “Having the technical capabilities and investment from a brand like Take-Two allows us to really take the next step in bringing the authentic, realistic and believable gameplay experience that our fans expect from us. “We have a lot of ambitious plans and we want to continue to work closely with our partners to deliver the best sports video games in the world.” Player Motions With the core gameplay features of FIFA staying the same - like goalkeepers, free-kicks,
