A GE Infinia gamma camera has been used to produce bone images in conjunction with 99mTc-MDP. The camera is not only capable of good images of the skeleton, but it also records a spatial image of the skeletal activity. The camera can therefore be used for physical-nuclear medicine studies. Bone images have been produced in patients with normal and abnormal bone. In addition, bone images have been made in normal subjects as an aid to diagnosing osteomyelitis.The Best Table For Small Roasting Jugs Nowadays, people find the use of the best table for small roasting jugs very difficult.
