UDALL, C.J., and WINDES, STRUCKMEYER and JOHNSON, JJ., concurring. . Wolff said that the practice did not occur while he was a coach at the U of M, which can be verified. But Wolff acknowledged that freshman Rashad Vaughn and senior Damon Brooke, who played the same position as Wesson, were "trundled," the play in which the ball is intentionally knocked away from the offensive player. Wolff said Wesson should be presumed innocent until proven guilty, which in this case is the end of the season. ``There's no reason to rush to judgment," Wolff said. ``The bottom line here is, I've never heard or seen or had any reason to believe that any of our players did anything on the basketball court that would be considered anything but appropriate. We don't consider them to be dirty. We expect them to play hard and compete and be gentlemen."We've had a surprisingly pleasant weekend here in the Blue Ridge Mountains with temperatures in the low 80s and cloudy skies. 12056-3:2000. There's good news and bad news for Mike Green in the latest edition of the grumblings over the NHL All-Star Game. It's bad news that the former Washington Capitals and Detroit Red Wings defenseman will not be playing in the Jan. 26 All-Star festivities in Los Angeles. And it's bad news for the NHL as well. The NHL is hoping to make inroads this season, especially with the Los Angeles Kings in the midst of a run that has them on their way to a Stanley Cup, but the league's
