There are many web cams on the market that you can choose from. I have tried several web cams and it appears that the best web cams are as follows: 1. Logitech QuickCam Pro 9000 I owned a Logitech Quick Cam 9000 when it came out and it was great. It had a super clear picture and it was really easy to setup. It was one of the first webcams to put out a driver for linux that allowed you to customize the look of it. The only thing that I did not like about it was that the battery life was terrible. A rechargeable AA adapter ended up costing me about $40, even though I know AA batteries were a lot cheaper back then. With that in mind, the Logitech QuickCam Pro 9000 has a great battery life. It is easier to setup, and it has a driver that allows you to customize what it looks like. Here are the pros and cons of the Logitech QuickCam Pro 9000. Pros: - Plug and play. - It is simple to setup. - It is cheap. - There are lots of options on how to customize the look of it - It has a decent battery life. - It has several ports. Cons: - Some web cams like this one are awkward to set up. This isn't a huge problem, but it is something to keep in mind. The fact that this Logitech webcam works on Linux, and that it has a driver that allows you to customize it, means that you can customize the look of it. However, the cost for this webcam is pretty high. The cost for the webcam is $129. This is a lot of money for a webcam, however if you are going to buy one, it is worth the money. - By Andrew D. Clock your shots for a game of basketball like a pro. Use several customization settings to set the clock's speed, the length of seconds and the time to reset the information. Set an alarm to fire during a free throw or during a shot after the buzzer goes off. You may change the time to countdown, the digits type, the color and several other parameters. You can even opt for an optional audio feedback for the countdown. Using python requests I used the follow settings for "agent": headers = {'User-Agent':'myuseragent', 'Accept-Encoding':'gzip, deflate', 'Connection':'keep-alive'} But react application gives a error : Unhandled Rejection (Error): No 'Access-Control-Allow-Origin' header is present on the requested resource In requests the headers are added in this way: headers = {'User-Agent':'myuseragent', 'Accept-Encoding':'gzip, deflate', 'Connection':'keep-alive'} As you can see I am using the same User-Agent, the same Accept-Encoding, the same Connection. Is there a mistake in my code or I am missing something here? EDIT: I wanted to do this in the browser import requests import json r = requests.post(address, json={"key1": "value1", "key2": "value2"}, headers={"User-Agent":'myuseragent'}) but my application gives a error Unhandled Rejection (Error): No 'Access-Control-Allow-Origin' header is present on the requested resource A: That's because requests does not define a proxy, you have to add the proxy directly: import requests import json r = requests.post(address, json={"key1": "value1", "key2": "value2", "whatever": "for the headers"}, headers={'User-Agent':'myuseragent'}) b7e8fdf5c8
