Superior papillary carcinoma of the thyroid with unusual clinical presentation and management. A 72-year-old woman presented with pain and swelling of the neck for the past year. Fine needle aspiration cytology revealed squamous cell carcinoma. Thyroidectomy was done, and histopathological examination of the specimen revealed an acanthotic neoplasm with features of papillary carcinoma. She was treated with radioiodine and is presently free of disease. Total thyroidectomy is the standard treatment for well-differentiated thyroid cancers. However, we report the case because the presentation mimicked that of benign thyroid disease, and fine needle aspiration cytology revealed a malignant neoplasm. "They Just Don't Understand" Around June or July 2014, I gave a presentation at the US Army's Civilian-Soldier Partnership Conference on the progress that the Human Terrain System had made in developing a more human side to counterinsurgency. The presentation was well received and I ended the session with an invitation to the Defense of Human Rights (HUMINT) conference in Baltimore
