It is to target the people of that country in order to install a fundamentalist Islamic government. While Congress voted on war powers with Trump, there was no one in the Congress to stop such an attack. That means Congress really authorized it. The basis of America's war on Syria is that it would help the U.S. to prepare for world war 3. It is very doubtful that the U.S. will prevail against Russia and China, nor can it afford to attack them directly. The U.S. would need a larger world war in order to defeat them, and we've gotten to a point that it is doubtful our military has the strength or the resources to destroy them. The pursuit of world war 3 has led to the failure of the U.S. government to achieve its stated agenda of weakening other governments with chemical weapons and to spread the use of fundamentalist Islam throughout the Middle East. The U.S. government has even promoted the idea that democracy must include a fundamentalist Islamic government. Now, the same U.S. government is launching missiles at Syria in order to change the Syrian government which was democratically elected by the people of that country. The following is from an August 29th article in the New York Times... BATTALION ORDERED TO TAKE DIRECT ACTION ON S
