You can download freebies from the Internet at no charge, but if you want to publish your work to the Web, you need to pay for a subscription for the Creative Cloud service. The service is so new that some freebies don't work with it, and, unfortunately, the only way to be sure your freebie will work is to pay for it. The Creative Cloud service costs $9.99 per month or $119.88 per year to subscribe to. # Creating Depth with Multiply Multiply allows you to gradually increase the appearance of shadows and highlights in an image, add more depth to a subject, and make the subject look more three-dimensional. To create this effect, first create a new layer in Photoshop, and then set it as a black-and-white image using the Black & White adjustment discussed in the next section. Add a white or black frame around the edges of the image so that you can see the finished image clearly. After you create the layer, select the black background color for the layer by selecting Layer ► Layer Settings ► Fill. Next, use a hard-edged brush and black ink to paint on the edges of the image. Use a soft-edged brush to paint the edges of the shadows on the image. 1. Using a hard-edged brush, paint on the edges of the image, creating a black border around it. If you use a soft brush, you can't make an even edge.

Naked and bent over in a doorway, the sports coach and councillor has to unbuckle her top to free herself from it before stuffing it back in her suitcase. "I think this video can open a lot of people's eyes," said a shocked Amanda. "When I got into the shower this morning, I could see all of myself on the bottom of the shower. "I was thinking 'I can't do this, I can't let my family see me like this' and I was scared to tell them and then I thought 'why did I let myself go like this, I am the wife of a politician and I should be the model of my village and family'. "All of the village girls are similar - they have no shame. "They all have tattoo sleeves and have blue hair. They are everywhere. "I would love to go back to being like a normal person when I get out of the shower." The video, which was posted online, has been watched by more than 11,000 people since it was uploaded this week. In a statement, the 15-year-old's father said: "This is not how I raised her. "She is an innocent little girl who has just made a stupid mistake. "She is sorry and she is ashamed about what she has done. "My daughter is a good, very humble and well-behaved person and it is sad that she has been used in this way."Q: Dynamic custom dropdown lists After getting really stumped on how to dynamically generate JSON with a custom dropdown list, I've done quite a bit of research and haven't found anything that quite fits this case. So here goes: I have a custom object called Product which has:

name, quantity, and status. This is a dropdown box which I have populated dynamically with the values "open" "pending"

Q: How to open activity automatically in android This is probably a very simple question to the experienced ones out there, but I am in need of some help. I am working on an android project in Android Studio which involves some html (in this case the html text displayed is a product name in a shop in an Android app) and I am using the Linear Layout to display it with two TextViews inside to display the first part and the second part of the name displayed. When I run my project for the first time, the name displayed is empty, but when I press the Back key it opens the screen in which the name is displayed. So basically I would like the first screen to be displayed when the app is launched in the Android emulator, and the second screen (the one with the name) only when I press the back key. I tried to add this code in the 'oncreate()' method : `getWindow().setFlags(WindowManager.LayoutParams.FLAG_FULLSCREEN, WindowManager.LayoutParams.FLAG_FULLSCREEN); setContentView(R.layout.main_layout);` But it didn't work properly and when I run the app, I am still on the first screen. Thank you in advance.

A: Assuming that you have a `main_layout.xml` file, you need to add a `setContentView()` to the `onCreate()` method. Something like the following should work.

@Override protected void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState);
    setContentView(R.layout.main_layout);
    getWindow().setFlags(WindowManager.LayoutParams.FLAG_FULLSCREEN, WindowManager.LayoutParams.FLAG_FULLSCREEN); setContentView(R.layout.main_layout); } The protective effects of
