You can watch TV online for free and listen to online radio free of charge. The number of on-line channels is by several orders bigger than any satellite TV package can offer, even the most expensive one. Thousands of channels - from many countries, in many languages - are available online. And it is the viewer, not the provider of satellite TV service that makes up the list of channels. The same with internet radio - not a single radio receiver will pick up such a great number of channels, as it is possible to find online, and the sound in online radio is clear, without any radiointerference. And what's more, there is no additional license fee. To get access to on-line TV and radio, as a rule, special software applications are used. Unfortunately, these applications aren't free of drawbacks: often such software works only on particular operating systems, strictly with particular types of multimedia devices, it needs to be installed, or it requires additional hardware, etc. In EarthMediaCenter all these drawbacks have been eliminated. If you are going to watch online TV regularly, you can download a very small file, and an icon will appear on the desktop. Just click on it and select a TV channel or radio station. EarthMediaCenter online sports TV Description: * Play thousands of free online sports channels and web radios. * Stream your favorite sports video or audio, or record high-quality stream. * No need to wait for a web stream to start, you can instantly start watching online video by browsing and selecting the
