It’s basically where I sell my home-made and vintage china, clocks and other accessories that I’ve made. I started the shop last year after the recession hit and the fact that my husband had lost his job. I didn’t want to go back to work, and at the time the idea of taking orders at home sounded like a great way to fit some extra hours into my day. So far I’ve learnt a lot – and it’s not only about technique and materials. It’s about being organised and taking care of yourself. The thing that has helped the most is a good friend of mine who’s an interior designer. She gave me some good advice, and also put me in touch with some really good artists and suppliers. It means that I can always buy great, affordable products that I know I
