Photoshop is the first page of Chapter 4. Dreamweaver Dreamweaver was the first ever web authoring program, and it remains one of the best, even if you happen to be designing for the desktop. It allows you to build and publish web pages without having to be a HTML guru. Dreamweaver features include being able to download and install a free Dreamweaver plug-in, which acts as a web browser and allows you to view the pages you're working on. In addition,

Dreamweaver gives you a robust code editor. It also has features such as the Dreamweaver gallery, which helps you easily upload images and insert them into the page. Dreamweaver is the first page of Chapter 4. Fireworks Fireworks is a vector illustration program that allows you to edit and work with vector graphics. It uses the Adobe Illustrator format (.ai) and is one of the most popular tools in this category. Fireworks works on the Mac, Windows, and Linux platforms, and it is available in a number of languages. You can find out more about it and download an evaluation version at ``www.adobe.com/cfusion/servlet/tp?event=homepage`` in the Adobe Technology Network. If you're a beginner, you may need more support when working with Fireworks. If you are an experienced user who's looking to learn a new program, Fireworks may be the ideal place to start. Flash Flash is the brainchild of Adobe, and its goal is to combine the best of the Internet and "desktop" media into a single program. Flash includes animation, sound, video, and a number of other features, and you can use it to create both web pages and stand-alone video and multimedia content. Like many other programs from Adobe, Flash works on the Mac, Windows, and Linux platforms. Flash is the latest addition to the Creative Suite, though it doesn't replace any other software. Adobe gives Flash for free and is looking to move even further into multimedia creation and delivery. It is the

Hi, I'm Dr. Barrie Maguire, the show's host.

This is Nauseating News. The BLUEBELLS festival is in the final week of competition. And the winners of the bluebells tattoo prize have been announced. They will take home a prize package which includes a bluebells tattoo. Congratulations to Curtis Mas, Curtismas and Clare Bunny on winning the bluebells tattoo. Well done. There were so many amazing entries, we've had to narrow the list down to just six. And we've got five artists: Here's what they have to say about their tattoos: The Nauseating News Tattoo Game Our final artist of the week. Colm O'Brien is from Cork in Ireland. Colm has designed a stunning portrait of Barry Keoghan. I like Nauseating News for a couple of reasons. One, it's in the name, hence the word. But it's also when people complain about stuff online. And yeah, that's the way you make it on The Nauseating News. People with tattoos Our final artist of the week. Brian Lindley lives in Boston. He has designed a beautiful digital collage of three characters he developed when working at Walt Disney World and Kennedy Space Center. People who want to win our monthly e-Newsletter have been voting for a winner. I'm always
