Free download electronique pratique 2013What we learned from the Valspar National Championship If you want to understand the Valspar Championship, just follow the players: Hank Haney, Mike Massaro and Brad Faxon. The trio is the unofficial leaders of the Professionals and amateurs on the PGA Tour and are the most visible members of the players and caddies union. And they're on a mission to get the game back to the roots and back to reality. Now with its second edition, the Valspar Championship, hosted at Copper Creek in in Florida, provides the perfect snapshot of the game as it's evolving at a rapid pace. Here are four things we learned: • Redemption is key Haney made his name on the PGA Tour as a broadcaster and his greatest breakthrough came in 1996 when he won the Buick Invitational in his very first year on the tour. That year, he built a reputation for aggressive golf, sharp shots and a refreshing, daring personality. It was often dubbed "Haney Golf." Although he's the ultimate professional, he also can be a real showman, and he loves the spotlight. And in 1996, he became known for his great match play games. He more than held his own against Woods — and Woods was still in high school at the time — but he wasn't the only big name on tour that year. There was always Tiger on the other side of a match, a superstar who really was setting the pace. It was only fitting, then, that two of the biggest stars in golf, Woods and Haney, met in the final hole, with Haney throwing down a wild chip that Woods was forced to save with a deliberate drop at his feet. They both celebrated a dramatic comeback win, but the big story was Haney's ability to take the short stick in the playoffs. As Haney said afterward, "We don't need to protect the ball for no one." "He's probably the only person that if you asked everybody on the PGA Tour this year if they would have won the Buick Invitational, Hank Haney would be No. 1." The Valspar Championship, which is in its second season, is a fee contract, the plaintiff relies on Hatfield v. Kauffman, 192 Ill. App. 3d 745, 549 N.E.2d 9 (1989), as supporting this proposition. However, in Hatfield the terms of the contract were different than those at issue here. In Hatfield the contingent fee contract provided that “[u]pon receipt of this fee the lawyer agrees to withdraw as special administrator and refer any claim to the client’s estate.” (Emphasis
