Key enhancements in HyperMotion Technology feature: On-ball interception: After the ball enters the player's foot, they gain the ability to see if the ball is played towards the goal or away from the goal. This allows players to react and tackle or intercept the ball more intelligently, as well as see whether a pass through the air is under control or headed for the corner of the goal. Expanding functionality: The expanded functionality of aerial duels, on-ball actions, and crosses makes the game feel more realistic, making players more confident with a "V9" style of play. Sliding tackles: The game makes it easier for players to tackle while sliding, and tackles no longer stop the ball. Intelligent marking: AI marking has been improved, now highlighting players on runs, making it easier to predict where they will be heading on the pitch. Real-world player movements: In addition to playing football like the real thing, Fifa 22 Cracked Accounts also features real-world, high-intensity player movements. Sub-150 ms response times: Players can now sprint and take a shot from a distance with more accuracy. Athletic sprints: Players have increased speed when sprinting, which makes it easier for them to accelerate and compete with teammates in short sprints. Player positioning: Players can now control the angle at which they kick a shot or turn around with greater accuracy, and make faster and more precise movements when they do so. Improved ball AI: Players can now more accurately control the ball when moving at full speed, more intelligently intercept passes and dribble the ball, and make more accurate passes. Play passing: Players can now more realistically keep the ball with the intent to pass, and pass intelligently while maintaining possession. Improved long shots: Players can now drive long-range shots with more precision and control. Authentic ball skills: Players can more effectively control the ball in one-on-one situations and make smart decisions during quick possession. Improved touch: Players can more accurately control the ball while dribbling and keep possession, by dribbling more naturally and better controlling the spin of the ball. Improved pressure and clearing: The game enables players to more intelligently control the ball, and react quickly when a teammate breaks towards them. Improved acceleration and balance: Players can now more realistically receive passes while running at full speed, and hold off players
