How do you edit, create or design in Photoshop? Let's take a look at how to use Photoshop Elements for photos, web design, graphic design and more. Many of the features in this tutorial are available to all versions of Photoshop Elements, but to customize them, you'll need to download the latest version of Photoshop Elements. For those who are new to Photoshop Elements, here are some great starting tips. To learn how to edit photos, graphic design and web design in Photoshop Elements, check out:

1. Editing Photo The Edit menu is used to change the colors, reduce the saturation, crop the images, levels, curves and more. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and click Edit to open the Edit menu.
2. Cropping Images Cropping images removes extra space around the main subject, making it smaller. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and select Crop. A popup menu appears to control the crop area.
3. Resize Images Resizing images is an easy way to make images less blurry. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and select Image > Image Size.
4. Adjust the Color Settings The Color Settings allow you to adjust brightness, contrast, the red, blue, green and yellow balance and more. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and select Image > Adjustments > Levels.
5. Adjust the Saturation Saturation is the amount of color in an image. The more color saturation there is, the more intense the color. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and select Image > Adjustments > Saturation.
6. Adjust the Curves The Curves tool allows you to adjust the contrast and brightness of an image. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and select Image > Adjustments > Curves.
7. Adjust the Hue, Saturation & Luminosity The Hue, Saturation and Luminosity is a color-mixing tool that allows you to adjust colors. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and select Image > Adjustments > Hue/Saturation.
8. Reducing Noise You can reduce noise in an image, especially the noise in photos and in videos. Open the file in Photoshop Elements and select Image > Adjustments > Noise Reduction.
9. Improving Your Photos You can improve your photos

Q: How to vectorize a for-loop with an if-statement? I have a dataframe df with 2 columns as follows. I am looking for a vectorized function. The function checks for certain conditions and returns corresponding values (1 and 0).
df = pd.DataFrame({'A': [1,2,3,4,5,6,7], 'B': [2,4,1,4,1,0,7]})
print(df)
A B
0 1 2
1 2 4
2 3 1
3 4 4
4 4 5
5 1 5
6 0 6
7 7 7
Function: def getX(df): for i in range(len(df)): if df['B'][i]==1: return df['A'][i] else: return 0
getX(df)
0 1 1 0 2 3 3 4 4 5 5 0 6 7
Can someone show me how to do this efficiently?
A: Yes, you can use np.where:
import numpy as np
df['A'] = np.where(df['B']==1, df['A'], 0)
where df['B']==1 is a vector comparison. But since this returns a series I don't know how you can return the values of a column at once. If you need to return both the 'A' and 'B', then you can do:
df['A'] = np.where(df['B']==1, df['A'], 0)
df['B'] = np.where(df['A']==0, 0, df['B'])
Edit: Using the answer of @MaxU i can rewrite this function like the following import n

Burning mouth syndrome: a diagnostic challenge. The pathophysiology and management of burning mouth syndrome (BMS) is discussed in relation to a case example. It is suggested that BMS can be best understood in the context of four interacting sensory and information-processing systems in the central nervous system: noxious, non-noxious, emotional, and cognitive-motivational. The possible sequence of events, lasting from initial sensory stimulus to activation of the frontal-limbic, thalamo-limbic-frontal information-processing networks, and termination in cortical suppression, is illustrated. Based on available data, it appears that the quality of oro-sensory stimulation influences the predominance of individual combinations of information-processing systems. For example, it is suggested that the noxious and non-noxious pathways in the brain may be compromised by the presence of sensory-motor deficits, resulting from a mechanical aetiology such as a destructive inflammatory disease of the tongue and/or teeth. It is recommended that a careful dental examination be undertaken at the outset of the diagnostic and management process to exclude such factors.
Q: How do I successfully run a Jenkins build (automated code testing) How do I successfully run a Jenkins build from my code? I already created a Jenkins job to run code from different repositories on my computer (but in a completely different workspace). What I want to know is how do I configure Jenkins to build my code in a new workspace and on a different computer?
A: In Jenkins config go to Manage Jenkins > Manage Nodes. Click the 'Add a Node' button. You will be able to add nodes in it. If you want to add the node from local machine, then you have to give the address of node machine's IP where Jenkins is installed. If you have a code repository, then you have to enter it's URL. Then you can give the parameters, which Jenkins runs to build your code. In 'Advanced' section, you can specify the properties about the environment, which Jenkins build would be using and other properties like the maximum memory, CPU time, java max memory...
