In Poulos v. State, supra, 659 S.W.2d 379, the court of criminal appeals discussed the Williams, supra, and Payne, supra, decisions and said: We recognize the two opinions were written differently. In Williams, the opinion of the court noted a significant difference in the manner in which the issue of the voluntariness of the waiver of trial by jury was addressed in the respective opinions. The issue was not squarely presented for review because the parties agreed that the court's charge should not contain a special jury issue on the defendant's assertion of his right to a jury trial. The opinion in Williams did not address the issue that had been addressed in *95 Payne. It is thus not surprising that the result in Williams was contrary to the opinion in Payne. It is apparent that the court of criminal appeals has concluded that the Turner standard is the correct standard of review in cases in which an issue is properly presented for review. We also overrule the portion of Payne which overruled Williams in that regard.

Fn is a cell-surface glycoprotein that is involved in cell attachment, cell signaling, cell migration and tumor cell invasion.
