4. After you've studied the book and explored the various Photoshop tools, click the File > Save, or use the keyboard shortcut CTRL+S (Windows) or COMMAND+S (Mac) to save the file. Photoshop enables you to use the new or existing file options in the Save dialog box, shown in Figure 3-7. You can select JPEG, GIF, TIFF, PNG, PSD, or RGB as the file format. The quality setting, shown in the top image of Figure 3-7, can be anything from 100 percent quality to 25 percent quality. I often suggest that students shoot their raw images and then work in Camera Raw as their work area, because they can continue to work on photos they've already taken. The sharpness, color depth, and other settings affect the finished print or web-based product. Figure 3-7: Use the File > Save As dialog box to save the file. The Save As dialog box has a Browse button, shown in Figure 3-8, that displays a selection list of your computer's default format files, and, as you can see, many options are available. Figure 3-8: Select your format to save your image. After you save your image, you can edit or add to it. You can export it from the image window, like you can in a program like Adobe Photoshop Elements (see Book IV, Chapter 6 for information on Elements). To export a file from the Organizer's Image Window, select the image in the Organizer and click the Export button. The Export dialog box opens, as shown in Figure 3-9. Figure 3-9: The Export dialog box enables you to save a photo as a file you can use in other programs. You have two options here: Save As and File Format Options. As shown in Figure 3-10, you can save the file as a JPEG, Photoshop format (PSD), PDF, or PDF/A. Figure 3-10: Specify how you want to save your images. The other option in the Export dialog box, shown in Figure 3-11, is to save the photo as a PDF file. This option is covered in more detail in the next section. Figure 3-11: Choose one of the two options to save your files

Q: Mapbox GL JS: How to choose between multiple layouts for a specific layer? I have a square map. I would like to display a custom map layout on every country of a chosen category. `map.on('load', function() { map.on('click', function(evt) { var layer = map.basemaps.topo.getLayer('countries'); map.setLayoutProperty('countries',...); map.refresh(); }); });` But the default is a world map layout. How can I display only the layout I want? How can I control the order of the layers? A: How can I display only the layout I want? You can use the `setLayoutProperty()` method to specify the geometry of a map layer. For example, suppose you wanted to display your map using a 'satellite' style layout instead of the standard 'ortho' style. The following code will simply use a completely new map layout, and set the 'satellite' geometry on the countries layer. `var map = L.map('map').setView([0, 0], 2); var countries = L.mapbox.featureLayer(mapboxgl.accessToken(), 'countries'); countries.addTo(map); map.setLayoutProperty('countries', 'geo_polygon', ['+proj=longlat +ellps=WGS84 +datum=WGS84 +no_defs', '+proj=longlat +ellps=WGS84 +datum=WGS84 +no_defs +to_meter=0.3048006096012192 +no_defs']); map.zoomTo(13);` Extraperitoneal laparoscopy with par

In Icon/Symbol Properties, there are 2 options (Under Text Symbol/Background Symbol) to use for the Icon. But I want to set up the Material Design Icons with different Color and Size at the same time, and there are same Icon that is used for different Symbol or Background Symbol. For Example: I got my same-looking Icons made by FontAwesome(via and MaterialDesignLibrary(via Do I need to create another Icon with a Text Symbol or Background Symbol separated for different Colors and Sizes? Or is there any solution in Material Design on this matter? Thanks! A: In the concept of Material Design, all icons have one purpose. The icon's purpose is to communicate a visual cue to the user for a particular interaction. As you can see, the purpose of an icon is to communicate something to users and that is the only point it should have. So we can use them for different purposes like: To represent some data that users can use and at the same time represent a button or for showing different states like: Expand (grow) Close (shrink) When your Symbols have different colors, you can only choose one for your icon (even if its a general icon that has different colors like a checkmark) because every icon have the same purpose. You can have your custom icons in different colors (or image as well if you want) and the purpose of each icon will remain
