security builder gse-j is a standards-based cryptographic toolkit written in java. it supports optimized elliptic curve cryptography and provides application developers with sophisticated tools to flexibly integrate encryption, digital signatures and other security mechanisms into java-based applications. security builder gse is intended for use by developers who want government level security and can also be used in conjunction with other certicom developer toolkits including security builder pki and security builder ssl. the pitney bowes compliant meter postal security device (psd) has been designed in compliance with the united states postal service (usps), information-based indicia program (ibip). it employs strong encryption, decryption, and digital signature techniques for the protection of customer funds in pitney bowes ibip metering products. the avaya g250 media gateway and g250-bri media gateway are complete branch office business communications systems that integrate an ip telephony gateway, an advanced ip wan router, and a poe lan switch into a compact (2u) chassis. ideally suited for enterprise with distributed branch office locations of 2-10 extensions, the g250 and g250-bri gateways replace the complexity and cost of managing disparate key and voice systems with a survivable networked solution that is easy to deploy and can be administered from a central location. the crypto-c me module is rsa security, inc.'s cryptographic library designed for securing mobile devices like wireless phones and personal digital assistants. it contains assembly-level optimizations on key wireless processors while offering great flexibility and choice by allowing developers to select only the algorithms needed in reduced code sizes. its functionality includes a wide range of data encryption and signing algorithms, including tdes, the high performing rc5, the rsa public key cryptosystem, the dsa government signature algorithm, md5 and sha1 message digest routines, and more.
